Default offer

$299 Conversion Quick-Win Audit - 60-second video audit - 3 conversion leaks - 1 implemented quick fix or written implementation spec - Delivered in 3 business days - Upsell: $799 implementation sprint or $1,500/mo growth ops retainer

Owner note

This kit is intentionally simple. Do not automate before first replies. Manual personalization creates the signal.

Offer Canvas

Use this before writing any outreach. If this page is vague, the whole launch fails.

1. Niche

Pick one narrow buyer group.

Bad: SaaS companies

Good: project management tools for 2-15 person digital agencies

Chosen niche:

[write niche]

2. Painful outcome

What measurable business pain do they feel?

Examples: - Trial users do not convert to paid. - Demo requests do not show up. - Onboarding feels confusing. - Landing page traffic does not turn into calls.

Pain:

[write pain]

3. Micro-offer

The first paid offer must be small, specific, and fast.

Template: > I will help [niche] achieve [measurable outcome] in [timeframe] by delivering [quick win].

Example: > I help project management SaaS teams find and fix one trial-to-paid conversion leak in 3 business days.

Offer:

[write offer]

4. Deliverable

What exactly does the customer receive?

Default: - 60-second Loom-style audit - 3 friction points - 1 priority fix - Implementation notes - Optional done-for-you fix

Deliverable:

[write deliverable]

5. Price ladder

- Free sample: 60-second audit teaser
- Paid pilot: $299 audit + fix plan
- Implementation: $799 quick implementation sprint
- Retainer: $1,500/mo conversion ops

6. Risk reversal

Choose one: - If I do not find one actionable fix, you pay $0. - If the audit is generic, you pay $0. - If you do not get a prioritized implementation plan, you pay $0.

7. Proof

Even without testimonials, use process proof: - Before/after screenshots - Checklist screenshots - Specific teardown examples - Public UX principles - Mini case study from first free audits

Final one-liner

We help [niche] fix [pain] with a [timeframe] quick-win audit, no ad spend or long consulting engagement.

ICP Selector

Score each possible niche from 1-5. Pick the highest score.

Criteria

1. Easy to find online
2. Clear buyer/contact person
3. Pain visible from website/product flow
4. Has money or revenue pressure
5. Can buy without procurement
6. You can deliver a quick win in 3 days
7. There are 50+ prospects available

Scoring table

Niche	Findability	Buyer clarity	Visible pain	Money	Fast buy	Fa deliver
Project

management SaaS for agencies	5	4	4	4	4
CRM tools for local service businesses	4	4	3	4	4
AI writing tools for creators	5	3	3	3	3

Decision rule

- 28+ = greenlight
- 22-27 = test only if you already know the market
- under 22 = skip

Best first ICP

Tiny B2B SaaS teams with a live product, weak landing/onboarding flow, and founder-led sales.

Pricing Ladder

Prospecting SOP: First 50 Targets

Goal

Build 50 relevant prospects in one focused session. Do not over-research.

Target filters

Use companies that have: - Live SaaS website - Clear signup/demo CTA - Founder, growth, product, or marketing contact visible - Small team or founder-led sales motion - Obvious conversion friction you can mention

Free sources

- GitHub orgs and product links
- Product Hunt launches
- Indie Hackers posts

60-second scan process

1. Open homepage.
2. Find primary CTA.
3. Check if value prop is clear in 5 seconds.
4. Click signup/demo if public.
5. Note one friction point.
6. Write one specific fix.

Quality bar

Every prospect needs one non-generic line: > “I noticed your homepage CTA says ‘Get Started’ but does not say what happens next. I’d test ‘Start a 14-day client workflow trial’ for agency buyers.”

Stop condition

When you have 50 rows, stop researching and start sending.

60-Second SaaS Site Scan Checklist

Use this to create the personalization line.

Above the fold

- Is the buyer named?
- Is the outcome specific?
- Is the CTA visible without scrolling?
- Does the CTA explain next step?
- Is there social proof near CTA?

Offer clarity

- Can I explain what they do in 5 seconds?
- Is pricing easy to find?
- Is there a demo/trial choice conflict?
- Are features listed before outcomes?

Conversion friction

- Too many CTAs
- Generic headline
- No proof
- No clear ICP

- Signup asks too much too soon
- Demo form has too many fields
- No “what happens next” text

One-line fix formulas

- “I’d change [generic CTA] to [specific CTA] so buyers know the next step.”
- “I’d move [proof] next to the CTA to reduce risk before signup.”
- “I’d rewrite the headline from [feature] to [outcome] for [ICP].”
- “I’d reduce the demo form from [N] fields to [N] fields to lower friction.”

Output

Issue:

Fix:

CTA for outreach: Want me to send the 60-second audit?

Cold Email Cadence

Rules: - 70-110 words max. - One specific observation. - One low-friction ask. - No fake case studies. - No calendar link until they show interest.

Email 1 — Specific audit offer

Subject: quick fix for {{company}}

Hi {{first_name}},

I looked at {{company}} and noticed {{one_line_issue}}.

One quick test: {{suggested_fix}}.

I’m putting together short 60-second conversion audits for {{niche}} founders. Want me to send you the quick audit for {{company}}? No call needed.

— {{your_name}}

Email 2 — Bump with value

Subject: {{company}} audit note

{{first_name}}, quick bump.

The reason I flagged this: {{business_reason}}. Small CTA/onboarding friction can quietly kill trial-to-paid conversion.

I can send the 60-second version with the top 3 fixes. Want it?

— {{your_name}}

Email 3 — Paid pilot ask

Subject: 3-day quick win

If improving {{company}}’s signup/demo flow is worth testing, I can do the full audit + priority fix plan for $299.

You get: - 3 conversion leaks - 1 priority fix - implementation notes - 15-minute walkthrough

If I do not find one actionable fix, you pay $0.

Worth testing?

Email 4 — Proof/process

Subject: my process

{{first_name}}, here’s exactly how the audit works:

1. I scan homepage + signup/demo path.
2. I identify the highest-friction step.
3. I give you one change to test first.

No deck. No long engagement. Just a practical fix.

Want me to send the free teaser?

Email 5 — Breakup

Subject: close the loop?

Should I close the loop on this?

If conversion cleanup is not a priority right now, no worries. If it is, I can send the 60-second audit for {{company}} this week.

— {{your_name}}

LinkedIn DM Cadence

Connection note

Hey {{first_name}} — noticed {{company}} is building in {{category}}. I’m sharing short conversion teardown notes for SaaS founders. Thought it might be useful to connect.

DM 1 — After accept

Thanks for connecting. Quick note: I saw {{one_line_issue}} on {{company}}. I can send a 60-second audit with one concrete fix if useful. Want it?

DM 2 — Follow-up

Worth sending that quick audit over? No pitch — just 1-3 fixes I'd test on the signup/demo path.

DM 3 — Paid test

If helpful, I also do a $299 quick-win audit: 3 issues, 1 priority fix, delivered in 3 business days. Useful for {{company}} right now?

DM 4 — Breakup

I'll close the loop here. If you want a quick outside look at {{company}}'s conversion path later, send me the word "audit."

Personalization Bank

- "Noticed your GitHub repo links to the product site."
- "Saw your founder post about onboarding."
- "Noticed you target agencies on the homepage."
- "Saw pricing is self-serve but demo CTA is still primary."

One-line issue examples

- "Your CTA says 'Get Started' but does not explain what starts."
- "The hero says what the product is, but not who it is for."
- "The demo form asks for 6 fields before explaining what happens next."
- "The pricing page has three plans but no recommended option."
- "The sign-up flow starts before the buyer sees proof."

Suggested fixes

- "Test a CTA that names the next step: 'Start a 14-day agency workflow trial.'"
- "Add one proof line directly under the CTA."
- "Move the ICP into the headline."
- "Cut the demo form to name + email + company."
- "Add 'What happens after you book' under the demo button."

Business reasons

- "Unclear CTAs create hesitation."
- "Buyers need to self-identify quickly."
- "Long forms add friction before trust is established."
- "Proof near the CTA reduces perceived risk."

Objection Responses

“No budget”

Totally fair. That is why I start with a free 60-second teaser. If the fix is obvious and useful, the paid audit is $299. If not, you move on with a free idea.

“Send info”

Sure. The short version: I find 3 conversion leaks in your signup/demo path and give you the first fix to test. Delivered in 3 business days. Want me to start with the free 60-second teaser for {{company}}?

“We already have a designer/marketer”

Perfect — this is not meant to replace them. It gives them a prioritized outside view and one concrete fix to test.

“Not a priority”

Understood. When conversion becomes a priority, the easiest first step is a 60-second audit. Want me to send one now so you have it on file?

“What results can you guarantee?”

I cannot guarantee a conversion lift without traffic and implementation. I can guarantee a specific, actionable audit. If I do not find one useful fix, you pay $0.

“How long does it take?”

Free teaser: usually same day. Paid quick-win audit: 3 business days.

15-Minute Discovery Call Script

Goal

Qualify fast, sell a low-risk paid pilot, avoid unpaid consulting.

Minute 0-2 — Frame

“Thanks for taking the time. I’ll keep this tight. I want to understand your conversion path, show what I noticed, and if useful, suggest the smallest paid test.”

Minute 2-6 — Diagnose

Ask: 1. What is the main conversion goal right now — trial, demo, paid signup? 2. Where do prospects usually drop off? 3. How many visitors/trials/demos do you get monthly? 4. Who is the best-fit buyer? 5. Have you tested the current headline/CTA/onboarding?

Minute 6-10 — Show insight

Share one specific issue from your scan: - what you noticed - why it matters - what you would test first

Minute 10-13 — Offer

“The smallest useful next step is a $299 quick-win audit. I’ll deliver 3 friction points, pick the highest-leverage fix, and give you implementation notes within 3 business days. If I do not find one actionable fix, you pay $0.”

Minute 13-15 — Close

Ask: “Want me to run that this week?”

If yes: - confirm email - confirm URL/path to review - send payment/proposal - schedule walkthrough

If maybe: - send written proposal - follow up in 24 hours

Subject: {{company}} conversion quick-win audit

Hi {{first_name}},

Here is the proposed paid pilot for {{company}}.

Objective

Find and prioritize the fastest conversion improvement in your {{signup/demo/trial}} path.

I will review: - homepage above the fold - primary CTA path - signup/demo page - pricing or trial page if public - confirmation/next-step messaging if accessible

Deliverables

- 15-minute walkthrough

Timeline

3 business days from payment and access.

3-Day Delivery SOP

Day 1 — Audit

- Confirm goal and URL.
- Screenshot homepage, CTA, signup/demo path.
- Identify 5–10 issues.
- Pick top 3.
- Pick one priority fix.

Day 2 — Package

- Write audit using 04_sales/audit_delivery_template.md.
- Add screenshots or links.
- Turn vague advice into exact copy/design recommendations.
- Prepare walkthrough notes.

Day 3 — Deliver and upsell

- Send audit.
- Walk through top fix.
- Ask if they want implementation.
- Offer $799 sprint.

Bad: “Make CTA clearer.”

Good: “Change ‘Get Started’ to ‘Start a 14-day agency workflow trial’.”

Testimonial + Referral Scripts

After free audit

Glad this was useful. If the audit gave you a clear next step, could I quote you on that? One sentence is perfect.

After paid audit

Was this useful enough to recommend to another founder? If yes, could you send one sentence about what changed or what became clearer?

Testimonial prompt

“Before the audit, we struggled with _____. After the audit, we knew _____. I’d recommend it because _____.”

Referral ask

Do you know 1-2 other SaaS founders who might want a 60-second conversion audit? A simple intro is enough:

“Hey — this is {{your_name}}. They did a quick conversion audit for us and found a useful fix. Might be worth a look.”
